OPERATION TO BE PERFORMED.

BERLIN, Nov. 15.—The National Gazette states that Dr. Bramann, senior assistant to Dr. Bergmann, has gone to San Remo to be in readiness to assist his chief in the operation of tracheotomy that is to be performed on the Crown Prince.

THE FRENCH SCANDALS.

PARIS, Nov. 15.—Leon Grevy, nephew of the President, is charged by the Seicle to-day with offering to procure a position in the Credit Foncier for a retired notary for fifteen thousand francs. The notary paid the money and did not get the position and sued Grevy, but the case was settled out of court.

Henri Rochefort has produced evidence that M. Wilson received bribes from the family of Baron Delliers, whose confinement in the insane asylum created consternation some time ago.

THE CROWN PRINCE.

LONDON, Nov. 13.—Dr. McKenzie reported that the cancerous growth in the Prince's throat was still very small. He agrees with the theory that the cancer was born with the individual growth of the patient and it is not the result of smoking. The prince says if the operation is necessary only Dr. McKenzie shall perform it. He is, however, much averse to having any operation performed while the Emperor lives.

SAN REMO, Nov. 14.—The Pope has written a letter to the Crown Prince in which he expresses the most earnest wishes for his recovery.

BERLIN, Nov. 14.—Professors Bergmann, Gerhadt and Tobold have adopted Dr. Schmidt's report of the disease, which urges the extirpation of the cancer. The Prince, however, refuses to give his consent to an operation.

THE KAISER OVERCOME.

BERLIN, Nov. 13.—When the news of the Crown Prince's relapse was communicated to the Emperor the other night, he broke down and covered his face with his hands and literally sobbed, crying, "Mein Fritz, mein Fritz, mein armer Fritz." He then began to pace about the room in an excited and irresolute way. "I have never seen His Majesty so completely upset," said a witness. Since then the wires between San Remo and the Imperial palace have been at work hourly, night and day. The bulletins sent to the Emperor are made as rose-colored as possible, but nothing can calm his terrible anxiety. He makes heroic efforts to conceal his fears, to live down his feebleness and show the same brave face to all.

THE FUTURE EMPEROR.

SAN REMO, Nov. 13.—Prince Wilhelm, the son of the Crown Prince, left San Remo this morning for Berlin, travelling in a special carriage, accompanied by several members of his suite. The future Emperor is a hard featured, manly, but unsympathetic young man of middle height, clean shaven, but wearing a long tawny moustache. He has a haughty and rather forbidding manner, as on the night he arrived he studiously avoided acknowledging the courtesy of the Italian officials, who had turned out to meet him, and confined his civilities to his fellow countrymen, who stood in the waiting room.

UNSETTLED INDIA.

LONDON, Nov. 13.—News from Afghanistan excites much uneasiness at the Indian and foreign offices. The position of the Ameer and his health are becoming weaker. He is a man of great resolution, but his severity has alienated the powerful tribes and succession in the event of his death by disease or murder is uncertain, owing to the infamy of his son and the popularity of Ayoub Khan.

Lord Dufferin is powerless to control events in Afghanistan and await developments, the probable issue of which he is quite unable to forecast for the information of Salisbury and Lord Cross with any approach to certainty. Events may arise leading to fears for the security of England's agreement with the Russian Government, and to the possible necessity of another advance to Candahar in case of Russian occupation of Herat.

JOHN BRIGHT PROTESTS.

LONDON, Nov. 13.—John Bright writes a long letter protesting against any land purchase act for Ireland. He contends that the Ashbourne act, improved if necessary, will serve all purposes for the gradual transfer of the land to the tenants, where such is needed.

THE DECORATIONS SCANDAL.

PARIS, Nov. 14.—Count D'Andlau has been sentenced by the court to five years' imprisonment and to pay a fine of £120 and be deprived of all civil and political rights for participation in the decoration selling scheme. This will practically make General D'Andlau an exile, as he is not likely to return to France under such a sentence. Mme. Batt[illegible] was sentenced to thirteen months' imprisonment and to pay a fine of £80. Mme. Vernon Attas De Curtiel received a sentence of two months' imprisonment. Mme. Sant Sauvier was acquitted. The preliminary examination in M. Wilson's case has resulted in a demand for the prosecution of M. Wilson. A sensation was created in the Chamber of Deputies. It announces the resignation of President Grevy. M. Henri Rochefort has been examined before the commission of inquiry and has produced evidence that M. Wilson had received large bribes from Baron Sallier's family. Leave will be asked in the Chamber of Deputies to prosecute M. Wilson.

CANADIAN NEWS.

THREE NEW STEAMERS.

MONTREAL, Nov. 13.—Sir Geo. Stephen has started for New York, whence he will sail for England on the Umbria. His visit will be fully occupied by closing the contract for three new steamers that are to ply between British Columbia and Japan. These steamers will cost $1,000,000, but the government subsidy amounts to $300,000 a year, which is equal to 10 per cent. on the cost of steamers, so that they are protected against loss should they only meet with fair success.

CHANGE IN THE CABINET.

OTTAWA, Nov. 13.—Several important changes in the Dominion Cabinet are set to take place among which will be the appointment of Sir Adolph Caron, to the Clerkship of the Privy Council, and John Costigan, Minister of Inland Revenue, to the position of chief editor of The Empire, the new government organ.

AMERICAN NEWS.

P. M. S. S. CO.'S MANAGER DEAD.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 15.—Brandon Mozley, general manager of the Pacific Mail Steamship Co., died late last night, aged 48 years.

CLARA BELLE.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 15.—The case of Mrs. Clara Belle McDonald, charged with forgery, was continued this morning until this afternoon in order to have Senator Stanford appear as a witness at that time.

THE ANARCHISTS' FAMILIES.

CHICAGO, Nov. 15.—It is announced today that the Amnesty society and defense committee will join forces and assume the responsibility of providing for the families of the dead anarchists, and a permanent fund will be established for that purpose.

OPIUM SMUGGLING.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—Assistant Secretary Maynard has informed the Collector of Customs of Rochester that the department has information of opium smuggling by way of the Canadian Pacific railway to border points, whence the opium is shipped to San Francisco and other Pacific points.

SUPPOSED TO BE IN VICTORIA.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 15. Michael Hogan, Secretary of, and Chas. Wagner, Solicitor for the Empire Seed Co., of Oregon, were arrested by the detectives last evening. These are the men who were selling wheat at fifteen dollars a bushel to the Willamette Valley farmers. K. Beatty, Treasurer of the company, is supposed to be in Victoria, B. C.

AN AWFUL TRAGEDY.

WICKES, Montana, Nov. 15.—A horrible tragedy was enacted at the end of the Montana Central tunnel, near here yesterday. A Finlander, a workman, without a word of warning, shot and killed John Eid, and seriously wounded John Limburg, fellow laborers. The Finlander then completed the tragedy by shooting himself through the heart. The general opinion is that the Finlander was insane.

A BIG HAUL.

ST. PAUL, Nov. 15.—John H. Webber, express messenger for the Northern Pacific railroad in this city, is reported missing this morning with a large amount of money expressed to western points. The exact amount cannot be ascertained until the claims of shippers are all in. The packages taken by Webber were not entered on the books. It is understood, however, that the amount will exceed fifty thousand dollars.

MINING STOCK MARKET.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 15.—The stock market was a scene of animation at the opening of the session this morning. Brokers were out in force, and the result was the sending up of prices. Ophir, which closed yesterday at 10¾, opened a dollar in advance and closed at 14¾. Mexican rose from 6⅝ to 6⅞ a dollar over yesterday's closing figure. Con. Cal. and Virginia opened at $25, an advance of 2½, but declined to $24¼ at which it closed. There were advances in all other stocks. It is stated on the street that Flood and others are bulling the market to even up on the wheat deal.

VIRGIN OF GUADALOUPE.

CITY OF MEXICO, Nov. 15.—A lively sensation was caused here by the arrival of a circular letter issued by the Catholic bishop of the State of Tamaulipas, in which he said that homage to the Virgin of Guadaloupe, the patron saint of the country, was not obligatory on the faithful, and it is intimated that the papal authority is against making such homage a point of doctrine in Mexico. This strikes a tremendous blow against a time honored practice in this country, and comes at a time when the coronation of the Virgin of Guadaloupe is a subject of angry controversy between the Liberal and Church party newspapers. Evidently the progressive movement has begun inside the church, where learned men begin to hold that the best way to meet the efforts of Protestant missionaries is to reform all existing abuses and to meet education by Protestants with education under Catholic auspices. The new Liberal Catholic movement favors the re-election of President Diaz.

THE ALASKA FISHERIES.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 15.—A special from Washington to-day says: It is not believed that the Alaska part of the fisheries contention will be considered at all at the coming fisheries conference. The reason for this belief is that the Department of State has not called upon the Treasury Department for any reports or facts in connection with the seizures by the revenue cutters. Revenue and maritime officials believe that were it intended to discuss the Pacific fisheries as well as the Atlantic they would have been directed to get up some information on which the commissioners could base their case. They say that they may yet have to do so, and they have all their papers so arranged that a brief can be prepared without much trouble. Owing, however, to the short time that must elapse before the meeting of the commission it is not likely that anything will be done. Should the commissioners arrive at an understanding very quickly, then the Alaskan question may be brought up, but otherwise not.

DEMANDING THE BODIES.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Nov. 14.—This afternoon a sensation was created by an application from Wm. Kibler and wife and others interested for a mandamus from the court to compel the Susquehannah Coal Company to produce the bodies of the miners who were buried in No. 1 slope of that company at Naticoke on the 18th of Dec., 1885, and whose bodies are still entombed. If the court should grant the request of the petitioners the expenses to the company would reach a quarter of a million dollars. The result of the proceedings will be watched with great interest by persons interested in coal mining.

GLADSTONE AND BOULANGER.

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—A telegram was sent by the New York World to Gladstone and Boulanger asking their views on the execution of the Chicago Anarchists. Mr. Gladstone responded as follows: "I regret not having a comprehensive knowledge of the circumstances. I fear my opinion would be wholly valueless." Boulanger's answer translated was: "I am much flattered by your request for my opinion. I hold that, as guilty of offense against the common law, the Chicago Anarchists merited severe punishment; but with reference to the sentence which has been pronounced, I should, taking into consideration the political concomitants of the case, have joined my friends in Paris in petitioning for commutation of the penalty of death."

A FASHIONABLE MARRIAGE.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 15.—Senator Jos. R. Hawley, of Connecticut, was married at noon to-day in St. Clement's (Protestant Episcopal) church to Miss Edith Homer, of England, who has been for several years one of the head nurses of the Blockley hospital in this city. Among those present were General Sheridan, Senator Platt, of Connecticut, Geo. W. Childs, Gen. McCook and Murat Halstead.

THE ARROW STEAMSHIP CO.

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—The Herald exposed the Arrow Steamship Company this morning. The company was organized about one year and a half ago, with a capital of $1,000,000. They proposed to build a fleet of ocean steamers upon an entirely new plan, and promised to revolutionize the navies of the world. They claimed that the vessels would be able to make the run to Liverpool in five days, that they would be indestructible, and would cost only about one-third as much as the present style of steamers. The Herald now states that the company is a fraud, and never intended to build any vessels, but was organized for the single purpose of floating its stock and pocketing the proceeds.

OUR CLIMATE.

The Rainfall and Average Temperature for Four Years.

The following record of the rainfall and readings of the thermometer, at New Westminster and Victoria, will give our readers a pretty clear conception of the character of our climate and will prove of much interest, especially to those who live outside of the province:

A CONTRAST.

There is food for reflection in the above tables, and a careful comparison will convince the most sceptical that the climatic advantages of Victoria as compared with the most favored section of the mainland are far greater than is generally supposed. The data for New Westminster is published by Capt. Peele, while Mr. W. T. Livock, of the H. B. Co. in this city, has kindly supplied us with the figures referring to Victoria. It will be observed that the average rain fall at New Westminster, each year for the past four years, has been 59.43 inches, whereas in Victoria it has only been for a corresponding period 28.38 inches, or less than one-half. As to the temperature, the difference has been equally marked. In each month of winter the average temperature is warmer in Victoria than in the sister city, while the reverse is the case in summer. Our climate is more equable, being warmer in winter and cooler in summer, while the precipation is fifty per cent. less.

POLICE COURT.

(Before Edwin Johnson, Q. C. S. M.)

Alfred Smith, charged with drunkenness. Fined $5 or one week.

Joseph King, charged with being drunk. Fined $5 or one week.

Johnny, an Indian, arrested by Officer Thomas and charged with being in possession of whiskey. Fined $10, in default one month's imprisonment.

Tom, an Indian, on remand, charged with stealing $50 and a quantity of clothing. Mr. Evans appeared for the defense. The prisoner was discharged.

Mrs. James Thistleton, summoned for keeping and harboring dogs, did not appear. Officer Robb testified to having served a summons on Mrs. Thistleton at her residence on Quadra street.

The information of Officer Thomas states that Mrs. Thistleton keeps and harbors two dogs which endangers the safety of people passing by, contrary to the bylaw. Was instructed to see Mrs. Thistleton on Thursday night regarding two little dogs which are continually annoying passers-by and children. The lady said her two little poodles were harmless unless annoyed by children; she called the children little imps; told Mrs. Thistleton not to use bad language.

The case was dismissed. At 11:20 Mrs. Thistleton appeared in Court with the two white poodle dogs. She was informed by the superintendent that the case was dismissed.

The boy charged with desertion from the ship Ottolina was brought from the lock-up and left the Court with Mr. R. Ward. Superintendent Bloomfield asked whether an order was given for the boy's discharge. His Honor replied that the Captain had applied for the boy.

Ah Chong, on remand, was brought before the magistrate this morning. The evidence of Mr. Kelly was taken.

LAST ACT REACHED.

The Funeral of the Chicago Anarchists Last Sunday.

Imposing Obsequies—A Strange Sight—Women in Red.

CHICAGO, Nov. 13.—Flitting, mile after mile in the gloom, down to the cold, flat earth, five unseen, soulless figures, fleeing in death as to the one great being for whom alone there can be no law, found a hiding place to night in the darkness, at a most desolate spot on the prairie's wide expanse. The five ghastly figures were symbols of attempted destruction to law; they were the five dead Anarchists—Spies, Parsons, Fischer, Engel and Louis Lingg. Probably half a million people in the city of their terrible crime saw the last public preparations for the final flight to the tomb. Seven thousand men and 250 women formed in the procession and followed the bodies to the grave. Ten thousand people were present in the burial, emptiest graveyard adjacent to Chicago, when the corpses at last were hidden. Muttered curses and bitter words, and a cry of "Throttle the law," accompanied the parting [illegible] after the five lifeless bodies.

It was almost to a second, the exact time that forty-eight hours previous the scaffold drop fell with Spies and his comrades, that to-day the blackest of hearses drew up at the door of his relatives. More peculiar still was the fact that the hearse was just ready to start at the precise moment corresponding to the announcement at the gallows that Spies had ceased to live. This was the beginning of the obsequies. About 4000 persons, most of them neighbors of Spies, were congregated on the street and sidewalk of the block in which Spies lived at the time for departure to the other houses where the Anarchists' bodies lay. A constant stream of mourners or curious sight-seers had been, since almost daylight, pouring through the building and viewing the livid remains or gazing at the weeping relatives.

The funeral procession was then formed. The first line crossed the Desplaines street viaduct at 1:45 p. m. There was no advance guard of police. Chief Marshal Hepp, with two aides, led the way. They wore no red, but simple black clothes and crape on their arms. Then came a brilliantly dressed corps of musicians. As this band passed Zepf's hall, which was open and filled with drinking men, it struck up a dirge, as did in fact every other band in the procession, and there were at least fifteen of them. The hearses were preceded by the members of several secret orders, of which the deceased had been members. A peculiar feature of the procession was the turnout of people who followed after the hearses. There were men, women and children. In ranks of four to eight deep they tramped side by side. As they swung into Lake street not a word was uttered by those in the ranks or on the corners. The most noticeable feature of this part of the pageant was the showing by two local assemblies of Knights of Labor, composed wholly of women. Each one of these was aflame with red. Scarlet in their hats, bows of crimson at their throats, and long streamers of crimson from their shoulders made the appearance of the working women an object of special comment. In front of them marched Miss Mary McCormick, master workman of the organization known as "Lucy Parsons Assembly K. of L." She was attended by two others, and the trio carried a huge wreath, to the top of which was attached a snow-white dove, emblem of peace. It will be remembered that the signal for the gathering at the Haymarket square was the printed German word "Ruhe," meaning peace. This was the only white dove in the whole line.

After wending its way through the streets the procession reached the Polk street depot of the Wisconsin railway, where the coffins were carried from the hearses by the pall-bearers and deposited in a baggage car, which was then attached to the train. Forty cars were required to take out the members of the procession, and hundreds of others besides those in carriages, went out on different routes. So dense was the crowd on the tracks that when the train pulled out it was at snail's pace. Every street crossing and every viaduct was black with human beings, who looked curiously at the train as it passed by. Out through the Bohemian district the wheels roll, and as the slowly moving train passed many Bohemian women, whose husbands had taken part in the riotous scenes of May, 1886, peered out of windows and over back fences to get a glimpse of the car in which were the remains of the men who had preached anarchy to their spouses and led them in many a strike. Arrived at Waldheim, the people quickly dismounted, and the band led the way to the cemetery, playing the most mournful dirge of the day. On the shoulders of their one-time associates were the black coffins of the anarchists, each half hidden by its display of flaming red. Inside the cemetery the coffins were laid upon a rude platform in front of what seemed a rough stone hut, perfectly windowless and with only one small door.

The relatives of the dead men quickly gathered beside Capt. Black on the platform at the vault. The captain delivered the first of the funeral orations. It was couched in clear cut, elegant language, but had no effect on the crowd. It was principally devoted to laudation of the dead men. Robert Reitzel spoke next in German, and was rather violent in his denunciation of every one connected with the famous trial. He roused up the crowd considerably. T. J. Morgan, a rabid English socialist, followed him in a violent harangue against the present condition of society. He said there could be nothing but contempt for the law which hung his comrades. Here was the moment when an excited listener yelled, "throttle the law!"

The last speech was by Albert Curlin, formerly of the Arbeiter Zeitung. He scarcely got a fair start on what was apparently to be the typical anarchistic harangue, when Captain Black stopped him. It was pitch dark and the people were being wrought up to a high pitch by the oratory and surroundings. The coffins were then secured in the vault and the people made their way to carriages and trains. The great object lesson of the century was at an end.

UNITED STATES TRADE.

The trade returns between Canada and the United States, for the year ending, June 30, 1887, show that the exports amounted to $39,523,685, and the imports to $34,988,110, the latter being less than in any year since 1880, when they were $29,346,948. In 1886 the exports were $36,578,769 and in 1885 about the same as for the year just closed. On the whole, the total volume of trade between Canada and the United States has not increased any for the last half dozen years. Ontario, Quebec, Manitoba and the Territories last year exported goods to the States to the value of $31,206,178, and imported to the extent of $30,828,838. The value of the Maritime Province exports to the States was $4,980,931 and the imports to $2,453,360. British Columbia's exports to the States for the year are valued at $1,660,168 and the imports to $1,705,912. Gold and silver coin and bullion were last year exported to the States to the value of $1,676,403. Canada's trade last year was 5.17 per cent. of the total foreign commerce of our nearest neighbor, or the fifth highest. Great Britain, Germany, France, and the West Indies, only exceeding the Dominion in the amount of trade done with our neighbors.

THE MEMBER FOR LANARKSHIRE, N. W.

The Liberal member for Northwest Lanarkshire, Mr. R. C. GRAHAM, who was seriously hurt in the riot at Trafalgar square, London, on Sunday, owes his election partly to the Irish vote. He made a plucky fight at the previous election and at the last turned a minority of 1,103 into a majority of 332. He comes of a very old Scotch family—the Grahams of Gartmore, and is the son of a very clever mother, the Hon. Mrs. (GRAHAM) BONTINE, a sister of the fourteenth Lord ELPHINSTONE. From her Mr. GRAHAM derives the literary tastes which lent a flavor as pleasant as peculiar to his election speeches. He was educated at Harrow, and for some years took to cattle farming in South America, where he married the daughter of M. FRANCISCO JOSE DE LARRALMONDIERE, of Chili. He goes the whole Radical hog, is very handsome and 34 years of age. Mr. GRAHAM was suspended by the Speaker of the House of Commons in the later days of the last session for speaking more than usually disrespectfully of the House of Lords. Mr. GLADSTONE once offended the Lords extremely by speaking of them as "up in a balloon;" but he was not suspended. Public opinion was against the action of the Speaker in suspending Mr. GRAHAM, but after all it was only for one day, and Mr. GRAHAM refused to withdraw the words he had used.

THE CROWN PRINCE AND BISMARCH.

A good deal of attention is at present directed to the Royal House of Germany. The Kaiser is approaching his 92nd year. His consort is also far beyond the alloted span and in feeble health. The doom of the beloved Crown Prince appears to be sealed—his physicians giving him but a few months at the furthest wherein to live. The effect of the removal of these three personages on the fate of Germany, as well as the peace of Europe, is causing much uneasiness. At this critical period in the history of that country much falls upon the shoulders of H. R. H. Princess VICTORIA, the Princess Royal of England, who married FREDERICK WILLIAM in January, 1858. It is no secret that she entertains no love for Prince BISMARCK; in short she despises him. She cannot forget nor forgive him for the opinion he expressed about her children, the eldest of whom in the natural course of events to all appearances will shortly become Emperor of Germany. BISMARCK was coarse and insolent to Her Royal Highness and increasing in his endeavors to ignore her. The Crown Princess does not mean to retire to a quiet corner at Potsdam or at Windsor, and she does not mean to die before she is something. This something is to become the Empress. It is she who inspires the Crown Prince with courage and energy to overcome his illness. Prince BISMARCK dreads the pride and spite of this woman. He fears that, as Her Majesty, she will open the way to principles different from those on which he founded the Empire. She means to adopt real constitutional principles for governing Germany. She aims at stopping personal and autocratic government. She desires that the voice of the nation be heard. In short, she wishes everything which BISMARCK believes would be the ruin of Germany. BISMARCK is convinced that if the Princess VICTORIA were to be Empress even one year only, irreparable damage would be done to Germany. This is the reason why BISMARCK wishes nothing more fervently than that the life of the Emperor should be spared as long as possible.

THE RIOT IN LONDON.

A Desperate Conflict--200 People and Many Police Injured.

The Military Called Out--The Police Frequently Repulsed.

LONDON, Nov. 13.—The proclamation of Sir Warren, head of the London police, forbidding the holding of a meeting in Trafalgar Square to-day, was placarded throughout London last night. At 8 o'clock this morning Trafalgar Square presented an animated appearance, owing to the continual arrival of bodies of police, small drafts having been made from every district in the metropolis. Three hundred grenadiers were stationed in the barracks in the rear of the National Gallery. Police to the number of 1500 formed a hollow square four feet deep on the southern side, for the purpose of protecting Trafalgar Square. Twenty-five hundred more were held in reserve. There were double patrols in all debouching streets.

Until one o'clock there was no sign of a procession. At that hour groups, mainly of sight-seers or roughs, began to assemble in the vicinity of the Square, but the squad of mounted police kept traffic moving and dispersed each group as it formed. During these charges there were many exciting incidents.

A MIGHTY CONCOURSE.

As the crowd thickened the police were compelled to use their batons. By 3 o'clock there was an immense concourse of people, packed on the steps of St. Martin's Church and Morley's Hotel and on the roofs of houses in adjacent streets. A majority seemed to be respectable men attracted by curiosity. The remainder were leafers of the worst classes. Several arrests were made about this time. Finally various societies of socialists, radical and Irish, approached the Square from every direction. The paraders were headed by bands of music, and they carried banners and mottoes. The police attacked and dispersed each group as it arrived near the Square. Fierce fights took place on the Strand, Northumberland avenue, Whitehall, Pall Mall and other adjacent streets. One of the societies succeeded in entering the Square, but was repulsed after a bloody fight, in which Commoner Graham was seriously injured. Graham was subsequently arrested for attacking the police.

At 4.30 p. m. the crowd in the vicinity of the square numbered 100,000, and the police were powerless to thoroughly disperse them. Cavalry and infantry were summoned to the assistance of the police, but no charge was made, as the people of their own accord began to disperse at dusk.

About 200 citizens and forty policemen were injured. Fifty persons were arrested, among them being Socialist Burns. Some of the injured were well enough to leave the hospital after treatment. One patient was dreadfully burned with vitriol squirted from a syringe. Another declares he was bayoneted in the buttock. Two policemen were stabbed with knives. It was noticeable that the crowd while hooting the police cheered the cavalry and infantry posted in the middle of the square, ready for action in case the crowd broke the police line. If the crowd had succeeded in breaking the line it is believed the riot act would have been read, and the infantry ordered to fire.

THE CAVALRY CHEERED.

When the cavalry force, with Col. Talbot at its head, arrived from Whitehall, and Magistrate Marshall prepared to read the riot act in case such warning should become necessary, the crowd became good humored, in marked contrast with their demeanor on the arrival of the mounted police. While the guards moved eight abreast around the square, cheers went up, accompanied by shouts of "Bravo! Marshall! We want free speech! We are all true Englishmen, Irishmen and Scotchmen! We only want our legal rights, as citizens of London!"

The second circuit of the square by the guards elicited opposition from a mob of roughs in the crowd, who shouted: "Britons shall not be ruled by lead and bayonets." Three groans were given for the Home Secretary. The guards patrolled the square several times, and then turned into adjacent streets. They succeeded in dispersing the roughs and greatly thinning out the crowd.

At 5 o'clock the grenadiers wheeled into the square, with bayonets fixed, and with twenty rounds of ball cartridges in their pouches. They were accompanied by ambulances. They halted in front of the National gallery and opened into line. The mob was thus caught between the lines of police and the military, and the roughs were compelled to run the gauntlet. They were hastened on their way by a shove from one policeman, a cuff from another and a kick from a third. Some of them showed a disposition to maintain their ground, but the soldiers brought their bayonets to charge position and the sight of the cold steel decided them to retreat. The officers of the grenadiers rushed to the front and ordered their men to replace their arms, and the soldiers then contented themselves with pounding with their rifles on the heads of the crowd. Boxing the ears of turbulent roughs with vigor seemed to delight the policemen. The crowd now hooted the military with an energy equal to that with which they had cheered them before.

VIOLENT CHARGES.

Soon after 5 o'clock the police made a series of violent charges with their batons, in a determined effort to clear the whole vicinity, many points of which had been crowded all the afternoon. During one charge the whole window of an electrical shop fell with a crash. The crowd asserted that the window was broken by the hoofs of some of the policemen's horses. The police, however, assert that bricks were thrown at the window. The loafers made a rush for the contents of the window, but the police captured many articles and arrested the thieves.

A minute later the window of a refreshment room was smashed in by the pressure of the crowd. There were one or two similar cases in the course of the charges, but by 6 o'clock there was no fear of further trouble. At 6:30 the whole force of the Life Guards again patrolled the square, and finally they dispersed completely.

Some excitement was caused at Whitehall by the victorious police marching with captured flags and banners.

The mounted police and the Life guards were now ordered in the direction of the parliament buildings, the side streets being cordoned with constables to prevent rushes. This move cleared Whitehall and Parliament streets, and the guards, with the exception of a body retained in Trafalgar square, were enabled to return to their barracks. By 7 quietude was somewhat restored, though the square was still cordoned by police.

OTHER AFFRAYS.

Away from the central scene there were several outpost affrays. The most serious affray occurred at 4 o'clock, at the bottom of Walington street. Sticks and stones were frequently used by the mob, and many police men were injured. An inspector had his nose broken by a blow from a clenched fist, and the man who committed the assault, and twenty others in his company, were at once put under arrest.

Another procession, consisting of several radical and social clubs from Clerkenwell, made its appearance at Broad street, Bloomsbury, but was forbidden to enter St. Martin lane. A severe conflict ensued. A large body arrived by St James street, on Pall Mall, at 4 o'clock, hooting the Carlton and cheering the Reform club. When this body was near the Atheneum, police barred the way. The crowd resisted and the police clubbed and drove them away, their banners being broken down and trodden under foot. Meanwhile the Prince of Wales, who was sitting in a cab unobserved, returned to the Marlborough house, ordered drinks for all the policemen on duty near the house. The Pall Mall clubs followed his example.

The executive committee of the radical federation held a meeting to-night and resolved to hold a meeting of delegates Wednesday evening, at the London Patriotic Club, to decide upon measures for repeating the attempt to hold a public meeting on Sunday next.

A VERSATILE SAINT.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE TIMES:

DEAR SIR—Although there has been no mail from Comox for several days, the Colonist has no less than four communications on the election contest now in progress in that northern constituency. I should like to know how these letters came to Victoria. Has the non-resident member for Esquimalt an underground wire—"exclusive to the Colonist"—which he can use in emergencies like the present? Or possibly the versatile Higgins, rising equal to the occasion, can evolve from out of his brilliant imagination all about "Humphreys in Comox," "Where is Stenhouse?" "Stenhouse's Chattels," and even round off with a letter from "Baynes Sound." On the principle that a wise man talks to himself because he loves to hear a wise man talk, the saintly St. David (how beautiful he will look when his wings grow!) writes himself letters because he loves his eyes to rest upon the hieroglyphics that he calls writing and to con over again the sentiments that struggled into life somewhere in the depths of his unfathomable brain.

ANOTHER SAINT.

let that cold of yours run on. You think it is a light thing. But it may run into catarrh. Or into pneumonia. Or consumption.

Catarrh is disgusting. Pneumonia is dangerous. Consumption is death itself.

The breathing apparatus must be kept healthy and clear of all obstructions and offensive matter. Otherwise there is trouble ahead.

All the diseases of these parts, head, nose, throat, bronchial tubes and lungs, can be delightfully and entirely cured by the use of Boschee's German Syrup. If you don't know this already, thousands and thousands of people can tell you. They have been cured by it, and "know how it is themselves." Bottle only 75 cents. Ask any druggist.

A Common Cold

Is often the beginning of serious affections of the Throat, Bronchial Tubes, and Lungs. Therefore, the importance of early and effective treatment cannot be overestimated. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral may always be relied upon for the speedy cure of a Cold or Cough.

Last January I was attacked with a severe Cold, which, by neglect and frequent exposures, became worse, finally settling on my lungs. A terrible cough soon followed, accompanied by pains in the chest, from which I suffered intensely. After trying various remedies, without obtaining relief, I commenced taking Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and was

I contracted a severe cold, which suddenly developed into Pneumonia, presenting dangerous and obstinate symptoms. My physician ordered the use of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. His instructions were followed, and the result was a rapid and permanent cure.—H. B. Stimpson, Rogers Prairie, Tex.

Two years ago I suffered from a severe Cold, which settled on my Lungs. I consulted various physicians, and took the medicines they prescribed, but received only temporary relief. A friend induced me to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. After taking two bottles of this medicine I was cured. Since then I have given the Pectoral to my children, and consider it for Colds, Coughs, and all Throat and Lung diseases, ever used in my family.—Robert Vanderpool, Meadville, Pa.

Some time ago I took a slight Cold, which, being neglected, grew worse, and settled on my Lungs. I had a hacking cough, and was very weak. Those who knew me best considered my life to be in great danger. I continued to suffer until I commenced using Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Less than one bottle of this valuable medicine cured me, and I feel that I owe the preservation of my life to its curative powers.—Mrs. Ann Lockwood, Akron, New York.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is considered, here, the one great remedy for all diseases of the throat and lungs, and is more in demand than any other medicine of its class.—J. F. Roberts, Magnolia, Ark.

A HARD BARGAIN.

By WALTER BESANT.

He took off the covers. The table was spread with a dozen different dishes, all served up together. Others I noticed, standing with bottles and decanters, on a large sideboard. As my generous benefactor removed the silver covers, his face, which had assumed during his questioning an austere gravity, suddenly lit up, and he laughed as the perfume of the hot food mounted to his nostrils. He seemed all at once a different man.

"Gently, gently, my dear young friend. Here is a dinner fit for a king; fit for me, if I could eat it. Oh! my dainty Boule-de-neige! Ha! Is it right to waste such a dinner on a youth whose only dreams are of a sufficiency of steak? Young man, in after years—ahem!—in after days you will remember this dinner. You will recall every item in this delicious bill of fare which Boule-de-neige has set before you. Let me teach you to eat it properly. Weigh your morsels."

Heaven! how I cursed his delay. He kept one great hand between me and the dishes, for fear, I suppose, that I should pounce upon them and clear them off all at once.

"Patience, patience. Consider each mouthful. Try to be thankful that cooks have brought their divine art to such perfection. Carry back your thoughts to—grunt—to time when all mankind fed upon imperfectly cooked steak. Think that all the treasures of the east and west have been ransacked to furnish for me this meal, and that you will never, never, see such a dinner again as long as you live."

At all events, I never saw such a meal again as long as he lived.

"We will now," he said, with a backward wave of his right hand, "consider dinner as a science."

"Oh, sir!" I exclaimed, "I am so hungry."

"It's beautiful to see you hungry, but I must not let you hurry. Eat as much as you like when you begin, but gently, gently—easily and gently. Think of the future. Think of me."

I stared at him in wonder.

"Think of you, sir!"

"Why, what would happen to me if you really destroyed your appetite, or even yourself in swallowing a bone?"

I thought he must be mad.

"Young man," he went on, "you will say a grace before meat, if you remember me."

I did not.

"Then I will say one for you. Oh! wretched trade of stage acting. He does not even know a single grace before meat."

Then he began to help me—and we went on with dinner without further interruption. He kept up a running accompaniment of comment as I devoured the meal; and his manner gradually lost all its solemnity, until before I was more than half through the dinner he was dancing about, slapping his leg with delight, and laughing till he grew almost black in the face.

Why he was so pleased I could not tell. I was soon to learn.

"These are plovers' eggs. No better thing ever discovered to begin your dinner with. Aldermen Stowport says oysters are better. That is rubbish. I do not despise oysters. Why, he has eaten the whole six! Bravo! bravo! an excellent beginning. Let me take away the plate, my dear sir. Now we have turtle soup—gently, my young friend, gently. Ah, impetuous youth! More? Stay—green fat. Humor, humor your appetite; don't drive it; calipash and calipee. It's really sinful to eat so fast. He takes all down without tasting it. No—no more; you must give yourself a fair chance and not spoil your dinner with too much turtle." He put the soup aside and took the cover off another dish. "Salmon—with cucumber. Lobster Sauce. Lord! me, it's like a dream of fairy land! Fillet of sole—a beautiful dream to see him. Ho! ho! he's a Julius Cæsar the Conqueror. Croquet de volaille—gone like a cloud from the sky. Don't wolf the food, my friend; there is a limit to the cravings of nature imposed by the claims of art; taste it. Ris de veau—smiles of the dear little innocent confiding calf—a little more bread with it? Mauviettes en caisse, larks in baskets—sweet, rapturous, singing larks, toothsome cockyolly larks. He eats them up, bones and all. Ha! ha! Pause, my dear sir, and drink something. Here are champagne, hock and sauterne; never touch sherry, it's made up wine, even the best of it. Come, a little champagne?"

"I generally take draught beer, sir," I replied modestly. "That is the drink to which I have been accustomed and—not too much of it; but, if you, please, a little fizz will be acceptable."

I drank three glasses in rapid succession and found them good. He meanwhile nodded and winked with an ever increasing delight which I failed to understand.

"Now, my Nero, my Paris of Troy, my Judas Maccabæus"—he mixed up his names, but it mattered nothing—"here is saddle of mutton, with potatoes, cauliflower, currant jelly. More champagne? It's worth sums of money to see him. Curry? More champagne? Curry of chicken? Cabob curry of chicken, young Alexander the Great? Plenty of rice? Ho, ho, ho! Plenty of rice, he said; why, he is a Goliath—a Goliath of Gath, this young man!"

"Ho, ho, ho! Plenty of rice."

He really grew so purple that I thought he would have a fit of some kind, but the flattery pleased me all the same, and I went on eating and drinking as if I was only just beginning.

"Quail or becassine—snipe, that is? He takes both, like Pompey. More champagne? Jelly, my Heliogabalus, my modern Caracalla, apricot jelly? Cabinet pudding? He has two helpings of the pudding. King Solomon in all his glory never——" More champagne? A little hock to finish with? He takes his hock in a tumbler, this young Samson. Cheese—Brie—and celery. A glass of port with the cheese. He takes that in a tumbler, too, like Oh, king of Bashan."

I was really overwhelmed with the splendor of the dinner, the classical and biblical flattery, and the extraordinary gratification which my really enormous hunger caused this remarkable old gentleman. He clapped his hands; he nodded his head; he slapped his legs; he winked and grinned; he smacked his lips; he evinced every sign of the most unbounded delight. When I had quite finished eating, which was not before we had got through the whole list of courses, he gave me a bottle of claret, and watched me while I rapidly disposed of it. Then he produced from a sideboard, where I certainly had not seen it a moment before, a small cup of strong black coffee with a tiny glass of liquor. As for my own part, I hope I have made it clear that I dined extremely well; in fact, I had never even dreamed of such a dinner in my life. It was not only that I was half starved, but that the things were so good. Imagine the astonishment of a young strolling actor, whose highest dreams were of sufficient beefsteak, not of the primest part, at such a magnificent feed. I felt as if I had dropped unexpectedly into a fortune. I had.

"How do you feel now?" my host asked, a shade of anxiety crossing his brow.

A DISCONSOLATE HUSBAND

How a Case of Domestic Irregularity is Advertised in China.

I think it may amuse you if I give you some extracts from The North China Herald, which are very curious specimens of a class of advertisement quite common in Chinese newspapers. Advertising must be a very economical matter in China, if one judges from the length of the advertisement from which I quote. A husband, whose wife has run away, inserts a long account of the circumstances under which he married the lady, and the story of her elopement, and goes on with his piteous tale thus: "I married my wife in 1878, with much feasting, and respectful obedience to parents. She is 27 years old this year. I followed, in July, 1883, the Ko ching (courteous and tranquil) battalion under the ever valorous viceroy, Tso tsung tsang. As my son was also on his duty, my wife and I removed our residence to Shanghai. In the fifth moon of the present year again we removed to the Hui fang Lou, where my wife, Ku ai ch' ing (the affectionate cabbage), went frequently to drink tea at the Ti i lou, of which I knew not.

"Later on, on the fifteenth day of the eighth moon, a Huchow man, whose name and surname, and whose grandfather's name and surname, I know not, went with my wife to burn prayers and incense to the temple. He had the sacrilegious effrontery to wear the little blue button and the medallion and beads of a great official. This went on until 8 o'clock on the seventeenth day of the ninth moon, when my wife indiscreetly and secretly vanished from my house, carrying a bundle, but leaving a 1-year-old little daughter who, without ceasing, weeps and wails from sunrise to sunset, and from sunset to sunrise. I cannot, therefore, control my wrath and bitterness. How, I wonder, could this ever to be execrated tailor's block without a name beguile Ku ai ch' ing from her husband, who mixes this ink with salt tears? Surely he has not law nor justice before his eyes or on his forehead.

"Should any kind hearted one give me information by letter I will reward him with $20; should he bring her back I will gratefully give him $40, and for a myriad generations, to all eternity, the eldest son of my successors shall burn incense for him. Should this rascal without a name obstinately retain my wife, not only to all eternity shall he be infamous, not only shall he cut off the line of his ancestors, and be discarded by his grandparents, but we three, father, son and little daughter, will at all times risk our lives to punish him. I hope he will think three times, and so avoid an after repentance. Letters shall be received for me at No. 4 Hui fang Lou, or at the house of my wife's niece's husband, Hsia Lao sau, at the Yung Lou." As the exhausted reporter sometimes puts it, "Comment is needless."—Leeds Mercury.

FEMALE STREET CAR CONDUCTORS.

The oddest thing to be seen is the female street car conductors. The street car managers of Chili have added another occupation to the list of those in which women may engage. The experiment was first tried during the war with Peru, when all the able bodied men were sent to the army, and proved so successful that their employment has become permanent, to the advantage, it is said, of both the companies, the women, and the public. The first impression of a woman with a bell punch taking up fares is not favorable, but the stranger soon becomes accustomed to this as to all other novelties, and concludes that it is not such a bad idea after all.

The female conductors are seldom disturbed in the discharge of their duties, and when they are, the rule is to call upon the policemen, who stand at every corner, to eject the obstreperous passenger. The street cars are double deckers, with seats upon the roof as well as within, and the conductor occupies a perch on the rear platform, taking the fare as the passenger enters. Street car riding is a popular amusement with the young men about town. Fellows who make a business of flirting with the conductors are called "musquitoes" in local parlance, because they swarm so thickly around the cars and are so great a nuisance.

The conductors, or conductresses, are usually young, and sometimes quite pretty, being commonly of the mixed race—of Spanish and Indian blood. They wear a neat uniform of blue flannel, with a jaunty Panama hat and a many pocketed white pinafore, reaching from the breast to the ankles, and trimmed with dainty frills. In these pockets they carry small change and tickets, while hanging over their shoulders is a little shopping bag, in which is a lunch, a pocket handkerchief and surplus money and tickets. Each passenger when paying his fare receives a yellow paper ticket, numbered, which he is expected to destroy. The girls are charged with so many tickets, and when they report at headquarters are expected to return money for all that are missing, any deficit being deducted from their wages, which are $25 per month.—William Eleroy Curtis in Harper's Magazine.

The Petersburg Crater.

Just as I arrived in rear of the First division the mine was sprung. It was a magnificent spectacle, and as the mass of earth went up into the air, carrying with it men, guns, carriages and timber, and spread out like an immense cloud as it reached its altitude, so close were the Union lines that the mass appeared as if it would descend immediately upon the troops waiting to make the charge. This caused them to break and scatter to the rear, and about ten minutes were consumed in reforming for the attack. Not much was lost by this delay, however, as it took nearly that time for the cloud of dust to pass off. The order was then given for the advance. As no part of the Union line of breastworks had been removed (which would have been an arduous as well as a hazardous undertaking), the troops clambered over them as best they could. This in itself broke the ranks, and they did not stop to reform, but pushed ahead toward the crater, about 130 yards distant, the debris from the explosion strewing covered up the abatis and the chevaux de frise in front of the enemy's works.

Little did those men anticipate what they would see upon arriving there; an enormous hole in the ground, about 30 feet deep, 60 feet wide and 170 feet long, filled with dust, great blocks of clay, guns, broken carriages, projecting timbers and men buried in various ways—some up to their necks, others to their waists, and some with only their feet and legs protruding from the earth. One of these near me was pulled out, and he proved to be a second lieutenant of the battery which had been blown up. The fresh air revived him, and he was soon able to walk and talk. He was very grateful, and said that he was asleep when the explosion took place, and only awoke to find himself wriggling in the air; then, a few seconds afterward, he felt himself descending, and soon lost consciousness.—Maj. W. H. Powell in The Century.

Parties having claims against said cases are to govern themselves accordingly.

A Wise Move.

Supt. Wilson and Inspector Blake, of the C. P. R. telegraph service, were engaged all day Saturday and Monday in putting together and splicing all the telegraph cables to be had in the Custom House yard. It is understood these are to be taken up into the mountains and laid under ground, where they will be safe from snow slides and wind storms. This will help generally in maintaining an uninterrupted service during the winter.

McKenzie, barrister, and ex-Superintendent of Education for the province, Nanaimo. THE TIMES joins their numerous friends in wishing the happy couple a long life of uninterrupted happiness.

DIED A DOG'S DEATH.

A Chinaman Succumbs to Disease, Starvation and Neglect.

The incidents in connection with the death of a Chinaman, whose name could not be ascertained, who was found stiff and cold in death, in a wretched hovel off Fisgard street, not far from the residence of Mr. Duck, are the most repulsive that have come to our knowledge for many years. The callousness of the Chinese to the sufferings and miseries of the unfortunate of their own kind is well known to those who, like the police, are brought into contact with them; but the cruel, cold-blooded brutality of the Mongolian character was this morning brought into more than usual prominence. On Thursday last the unfortunate Chinaman was found in a pitiable condition on Cormorant street and taken to the house in question, which was called the Chinese hospital. He was evidently suffering from some terrible disease, the nature of which a medical gentleman was unable to determine. When found he was crawling on the street, too emaciated to walk, and with scarcely rags enough upon his body to cover his nakedness. After being taken to "the hospital," the sanitary officer called upon a number of the leading residents of Chinatown and pointed out the man's condition and the urgent need that existed for immediate succor. Four or five visits were made to the Chinese to enlist their sympathies for their fellow countryman. A man was sent to clean out the place, some uncooked rice and a coal oil can of water were placed beside the dying man. That was the full measure of the charity that was meted out to the miserable wretch, who for six days has lain upon a filthy floor, without clothing, without fire and without food or medicine. His countrymen who were spoken to promised to take him food, but Mr. Blake is of opinion that, with the exception of the uncooked rice, he received none. This forenoon, when the Sanitary Officer visited the hut he was horrified to find the poor victim of disease, cruelty and neglect, a corpse. The body was entirely nude and the room was in an indescribably filthy condition. There was no evidence that any attention had been paid to the dead man other than what has been mentioned. We believe there is a society among the Chinese known as the Consolidated Benevolent Association, which collects money for the purpose of assisting the needy and unfortunate. This society has done nothing in this case. When spoken to, a Chinese merchant said that as the Chinese merchants had contributed $3000 to the Jubilee Hospital, it was the duty of white men to take such cases in charge—a contention which, by the way, is not without considerable force. The victim of man's inhumanity, in the meantime, died the death of a dog, and probably will receive as much attention after as he did before his exit from the world.

The Postal Telegraph.

Mr. W. C. Levin, Superintendent of the Postal Telegraph service, with headquarters at San Francisco, is in the city and a guest at the Driard. This is his first visit to the North Pacific Coast. Mr. Levin is a native of the town of Dundas, a suburb of Hamilton, Ont., which place he left some ten years ago. By dint of perseverance and being possessed of sterling good character he succeeded to the honorable position he now occupies. He reports business all along the line of the Postal service as highly satisfactory; business gradually increasing, and the public expressing satisfaction with the delivery and rapid transmission of messages. Mr. Levin is a fair example of what the Canadian can make of himself when the opportunity presents itself. A number of the managers of offices under Mr. Levin are also Canadians. Mr. Levin leaves for the south again in the morning, highly pleased with his visit to the land of his nativity and British soil.

Serious Burning Accident.

An accident which yet may prove fatal happened to Mr. H. J. Cook, at the family residence, near Cook's ways on the Indian reserve, on Sunday night. By some unknown means the dress of Mrs. Cook caught fire about 11 o'clock on the evening named. Her husband, who had left her in the sitting-room lying on a sofa, retired about 9 o'clock. At 11 he was awakened by loud screams and on opening the bed-room door was shocked to observe his wife rushing towards him enveloped in a sheet of flames. As quick as thought suggested it he applied a blanket and succeeded in putting out the fire, but not before the unfortunate woman had been seriously burned about the limbs and her body, which presents a sight at once horrible to look at. Dr. Milne was sent for and lost no time in reaching the victim whose sufferings were intense. She was in a state of comatose when he arrived, but after remedies had been applied her consciousness returned. Dr. Milne holds out but slight hope for her recovery.

Canada's Governorship.

LONDON, Nov. 13.—The approaching retirement of Lord Lansdowne from the office of Governor-General of Canada will give rise to rumors of his successor. The latest is that Lord Dunraven will be appointed. Down to the present moment Lord Dunraven has heard nothing of it. If he had not retired from the Ministry soon after Lord Randolph, he might have stood a better chance of being asked, but it is doubted whether he would have accepted the offer. The secrets of Cabinet councils are being well kept this year, but some things leak out. It may be taken for granted that no important changes in the Ministry have been decided on, although the sudden appearance to-night at the Carlton Club of Lord Randolph Churchill gave rise to a good many rumors. It may also be repeated that no scheme of Irish land purchase has been adopted, and almost any scheme that might be submitted will meet with much opposition from within the Conservative ranks. It must involve State aid, so that the Conservatives as a body are opposed to this question. It will be a very dangerous one to handle.

A Successful Entertainment.

The entertainment given last evening in the Cathedral school room by the Church of England Temperance Society was a successful affair. The unfavorable condition of the weather prevented a number from being present; as it was the attendance was good. Mrs. L. M. Caldwell had charge of the programme which consisted of vocal and instrumental music, recitations, etc. Those who took a leading part in the entertainment were the Rev. Mr. Davis, Mrs. P. T. Johnston, Mrs. T. N. Hibben, Mr. J. N. Muir, Mrs. Moresby (New Westminster), who made a very favorable impression, Miss Broderick, Dr. Renwick, Mr. Offerhaus, Miss Cameron, Miss Jamieson, Miss Maggie Farron, Mr. T. Gore, Mrs. Arrowsmith. The gem of the evening was the fife and drum band under the direction of Mrs. Johnston, composed of Masters Willie Becket, George Walton, Willtie Gabriel, George Kurtz, Eugene Miller, Cebil and Frank Hett, Robert Philip, Purcel and James Johnston. The little fellows played their part well, as did also all those who took part in the entertainment. The next entertainment takes place on the 12th of December.

FROM THE NORTH.

Arrival of the Boscowitz—Passengers, Weather, Surveyors, &c.

The Barbara Boscowitz arrived from Fort Simpson and way ports at 8 o'clock this morning with the following passengers: Rev. Crosby and daughter, Bishop Ridley, S P Tuck, Capt Jemmett, E M Skinner, McNeill, J J Alexander, G B Porter, W H Porter, D Allan, J D Cameron, A Alston Hole, Mitchell, McDonald, Gibson, Wilson, Wilkinson, Benny, McKeon, D Page, J McAllister, Simpson, J May, Mulkey, Lewis, Insker, Hunt, Conant, Bones, Sayyes, Johnson, Atchison, Morrow, Green, Merrison.

The trip down was very rough, and occasional snow storms were met by the steamer. Three surveying parties, under Captain Jemmett, S. P. Tuck and E. M. Skinner, came down on the Boscowitz. Snow is falling on the Skeena River. The steamer brought 6,700 cases of salmon, consigned to Turner, Beeton & Co., and other freight for H. B. Co., Neufelder & Ross, Morris Moss, D. Spencer, T. H. Hall and J. Hartnell.

COUN GRANT AND THE COLONIST.

To THE EDITOR OF THE TIMES:

SIR,—Councillor Higgins, through an editorial in the Colonist of this morning, accuses me of prolonging the discussion on the water works improvement. I had nothing to say on the matter through the press until the Colonist was inspired to belittle the efforts of the water committee. When a Britisher is attacked, one always expects a defence (but I forget that the pompous Councillor is not a Britisher.) It is put forward by the Colonist that if I had not spent a couple of months in Cassiar, I would have known more about it. That may be true; but I doubt it. Coun. Higgins will agree with me this far at any rate, that he enjoyed himself much more galavanting last year around Montreal, playing "a big man me" for a month or two than I could have done in the north. And what a pleasant time again my brother Councillor had for a month waiting at the Foster Mine this year for the expected dividend to defray the expenses of an European and China tour. Coun. Higgins states that my "memory needs refreshing." Not a bit of it; I am well acquainted with the whole proceedings. The nature of the report of Couns. Pearse and Barnard asked for power to arrange with Mr. Bell, as consulting engineer. The report, which I take the credit of dictating, is widely different and reads as follows:

To His Worship, &c.:—GENTLEMEN—Your committee having duly considered the difference of opinion obtaining in this Council as to the most efficient manner of supplementing the supply of water to this city, brought about by the conflicting statements made by engineers to this Council, respectfully submit that it is desirable to call in the professional services of an engineer (other than a resident one), whose knowledge and ability to deal with such matters is well known; so that steps may be taken as soon as possible to carry on this much needed improvement, and to make the conclusions arrived at final. (Signed):

B. W. PEARSE,
JOHN GRANT,
Water Committee.

Victoria, Aug. 26, 1887.

On being put to a vote the above report and recommendations were lost. On the 5th October last, a report virtually the same as that quoted, was presented to the Council by Coun. Barnard and adopted. This is one reason why I have stated that the Water Committee were not at fault and that the action of the Council was, to say the least of it, inconsistant. The refusal by the Mayor to put the motion on Wednesday night last, is not a legal abandonment of the chair, notwithstanding that Coun. Higgins says so. The business of the Council is governed by law. Whether that law is right or wrong, I am not at present discussing. As the law stands, no amount of sophistry advanced by Coun. Higgins can change it. Acts of the Council in the matter of contracts are only binding on the corporation when the same are legally perfected. I deny that my "actions and I vote on Wednesday night belie my candid last evening." Coun. Higgins knows that I stated in the Council that I would not have any objection to the awarding of the contract for the 16-inch main, provided that the Council could show that there is sufficient funds in hand to meet the liability and consequent outlay. It is also a matter of record that a majority of the Council refused to provide, through the Water Commissioner, an estimate of the cost of the new scheme. I ask ratepayers whether this is satisfactory to them or not?

COUN. GRANT.

ANCIENT REMINISCENCE.

To THE EDITOR OF THE TIMES:

SIR—There is no one in this community more conversant with, or capable of giving an opinion on the peculiar flavor of ancient eggs than is the "old man" of the Colonist, for is it not a fact that he has been there on repeated occasions himself, and is therefore well posted on the odor arising from his favorite perfume? The saintly man of the Colonist may blow and howl as he chooses against Mr. Humphreys, who is certain to be elected in Comox by a very large majority. The unpalatable rubbish now being spouted out by David for his smut machine will not in any wise influence a solitary voter. Mr. Humphreys' election for Comox is as certain as that day succeeds night, and don't you forget it Mr. Colonist.

ONE WHO KNOWS.

THE WATER PIPES.

Phonography.

Young men and young ladies who desire to learn phonography are reminded that Messrs. Gulline and Evans open classes this evening, at 7:30, in the office of the former on Government street. Both gentlemen are practical writers, and possess the ability to impart their knowledge to others. Probably no other branch of knowledge affords the same opportunities to acquire remunerative employment as does short-hand. There is, however, no royal road to its acquisition, and perseverance and practice will be necessary to master it sufficiently for adoption as a profession. The way of the student is made easy by the teacher, and a correctness of style ensured. It is of importance that the class should begin all together, and for that reason all who propose joining ought to be present to-night.

San Francisco's Imports.

The imports of San Francisco by water for the month of October amounted to $3,875,979 and by rail, $372,809. British Columbia's water contribution amounted to $129,192. In American bottoms, by steam, the value of the imports was $845,497, and by sailing vessel under same flag, $407,693. In foreign steam bottoms the value was $1,561,538, and by sail, $1,061,257. For the same month the treasure imported amounted to $2,815,280, of which British Columbia contributed $61,912. The rice imported amounted to 2,591,922 lbs., valued at $92,174, Victoria contributing 100,000 lbs. to the value of $1,920.
